Student Support Worker – Full Time Competition 2304

North Cariboo Christian School has an opening for a full-time Student Support Worker, starting immediately. The Student Support Worker reports directly to the Student Support Director and works with students with special needs and classroom teachers to facilitate student learning and educational development.

The successful applicant will have a demonstrated ability to work with students with special needs, to collaboratively develop and implement programs and IEPs for students, facilitate communication and liaise with outside agencies, and to offer instructional support in or out of the classroom using appropriate resources in accordance with individual student needs. An Education Assistant certificate or equivalent is preferred, ideally with recent related experience in a school setting.

The starting wage for a Student Support Worker ranges from $20.00 to $24.00, and placement on the scale is determined by education and experience.

We would like to hear from you if you have an active Christian faith and a desire to support students in a school that is committed to education with a Christian Worldview: a school that values collaboration, mentorship, and creating inspiring educational experiences within the liberty of an independent, interdenominational Christian School setting.

Quoting the competition number in the subject line, direct your cover letter and resume to Pieter van Jaarsveld, Principal at principal@nccschool.ca. A complete job description can be provided through our office. For more information about our school please visit our website at www.nccschool.ca. We offer a competitive benefits package. This competition is open until filled.

NCCS, located in the Cariboo city of Quesnel, BC, is celebrating 29 years of educating students. See www.quesnel.ca for more information about Quesnel.
