Dear Parents,

The Psalmist tells us that “when the peace of Christ rules in our hearts, thankfulness overflows. Even in the darkest of times, we can praise God for His love, His sovereignty, and His promise to be near us when we call.” (Psalm 145:18).

As Parents, we often have a lot on our plates and on our minds; but I challenge you this thanksgiving weekend, to “cast your cares upon God who cares for you” and to fill your plates with turkey and your minds with thanksgiving. To find reasons to give thanks, all we have to do is look toward our children. In this letter, I will give some pictures of students expressing their learning in various art projects and activities.

Happy Thanksgiving to all of our parents and families from the staff at NCCS.
